Working Together – We’re More Than OK!

The National Conference of State Liquor Administrators, Incorporated (NCSLA) will assemble June 11 - 14 in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma for its 2023 annual conference. Serving as conference host is the Oklahoma Alcoholic Beverage Laws Enforcement (ABLE) Commission. “The Oklahoma ABLE Commission is excited to be the host of this year’s conference and welcome everyone to the Sooner State,” said Captain Erik Smoot.

Join us for this year’s Annual Conference, “Working Together – We’re More Than OK!” which is sure to deliver a comprehensive overview full of dynamic discussions on current regulations and trends for the beverage alcohol industry. With continuing shifts in the way policy makers consider how alcohol is best regulated nearly 90 years post-prohibition, public health and safety remain paramount. So how can states effectively allow for the synergy of modern consumer demands, innovation, and technology? This year’s business program will highlight the current industry trends with opposing views, and the need to continue open exchanges to quell discord in favor of adopting policies and regulations that fit the realities of today’s legal landscape. Topics range from public health, direct-to-consumer shipment, the push for modernization, third party delivery, social media, online advertising, national soda brands entering the alcohol market, recycling programs, the annual legal update of the year’s most influential cases, ethics, and more! You won’t want to miss this educational event. To view the entire business agenda and a list of faculty, please visit www.ncsla.org.
